NEWSLETTER 15.11.2024

Dear Parents and Carers,

The week started with two minutes silence for Remembrance Day - a moment to pause and reflect together. We then moved on to Anti-bullying week and I led an assembly on Monday afternoon to start the week. This year, the national theme is 'Choose Respect'. We talked about the choices we make and the difference between falling out with our friends and bullying. Tuesday saw a marvellous array of odd socks in school! A very colourful sight to see!! We reminded everyone that we are all the same yet all different and this is a good thing and should be celebrated.

Yesterday, Mr Jones had a wonderful afternoon starting with a couple of teambuilding Tarpaulin challenges followed by the science link of light! Children experienced what it was like to not see light and led each other on a blindfold trail followed by creating a shelter to block out light. Snack today was the world famous Mr Jones's campfire toast with jam!!

I am delighted to announce that we have now recruited our new Head of School for Trewidland called Mrs Amanda Cummings. She will start with us at the beginning of the Spring term after Christmas teaching Class 2. I will remain in the role of Executive Headteacher, Mr Spencer continues to be SENDCO and Mr Frame and Mr Jones continue to teach on a Thursday. We are extremely grateful to Mrs Cotton for stepping in during this transitional time - you will still see her around at times. Mrs Cummings will be joining us for our training day next week and will visit school prior to January - she can't wait to join the team and meet children and parents/carers.

Don't forget, school is closed next Friday 22nd for staff training.

Have a lovely weekend.

Best wishes, Mrs Pipe, Executive Headteacher

Quote of the Week

"I really had a lot of dreams when I was a kid, and I think a great deal of that grew out of the fact that I had a chance to read a lot". Bill Gates
